

Adding numbers.

Can you show that by adding two even numbers you always get an even number?

What if you add two odd numbers?

What if you add an even and an odd number?

Show your working out in an interesting way.